

International Women's Day

ICAR-RCER, Patna observed International Women's Day on 8th March 2019. The programme was headed by Dr. JJ Gupta, Principal Scientist. He gave the welcome address and described the importance of celebrating this auspicious day, and also told that these days women are not only taking part in every sector, but also they are performing better than expectation. Apart from this, he discussed about the importance and urgency of providing equal platform to women so that they may come into the mainstream and provide much needed enthusiasm to the agricultural development in the country. The only thing is that we need to encourage them. Dr. Ashutosh Upadhyay, Principal Scientist and Shri Pushpanayak, CAO added colour to the programme with their superb poems based on women empowerment.

All the staffs including farm women of this complex attended the programme. Many other staffs also shared their views. The programme concluded with vote of thanks by Dr. JJ Gupta.
